

Houses of the Northern Zone.

Above: Monpa houses at Dirang. A two-storeyed wooden structure rests on a stone fundament topped by slate or wood shingle roofing. Prayer flags erected at the roof's corners extend spiritual protection to the house.

Right: A Sherdukpen house built from roughly hewn stone boulders with a cane mat as roofing. Photo by H Höger.

